LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Some trips stay with you long before the suitcase is unpacked. Greece in August 2025 was one of those rare adventures.

Brooke & Robin set out with an open plan and a shared sense of wonder, following the ferry routes and the sun—hopping from island to island, each one more beautiful in its own way.

We wandered whitewashed villages, chased quiet coves, swam in water that shimmered every shade of blue, and lingered over late dinners with locals who felt like old friends.

This magazine is our love letter to those moments—and to the magic of traveling together.

Morning light in Naxos.

THE TRAVEL ROUTE

Five unforgettable stops, countless blue views, and one incredible Greek summer.

ATHENS

Our adventure begins in ancient Athens.

SANTORINI

Whitewashed dreams and sunsets that take your breath away.

PAROS

Charming villages, golden beaches, island slow living.

MILOS

Surreal landscape and turquoise waters to explore.

MYKONOS

The perfect finale— sun, style, and island energy.

THE WAY
we went

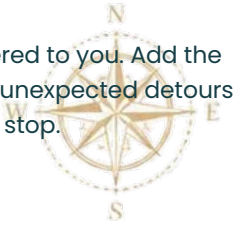

A few stops. A thousand little details.

Follow the places that mattered to you. Add the journeys between them, the unexpected detours and the view that made you stop.

BEFORE THE JOURNEY begins

There is a moment when the bags are packed, the plans are made, and every possibility still lies ahead.

The first glimpse

A different light. A slower rhythm.
A whole journey waiting to happen.

FIRST DAY

memories

Our first afternoon belonged to the water. We left the bags behind and followed a narrow lane until the sea came into view. The rest of the day unfolded from there: a shaded table, a shared plate and the happy feeling that we had finally arrived.

Arrival in blue

What we want to remember

More than a photograph.

The light, the laughter, the little details.
A few frames from a day we want to keep.

SECOND DAY

memories

The morning began without a timetable. We walked while the streets were still quiet, stopped for coffee and let one small discovery lead to the next. By evening, the unfamiliar corners were beginning to feel like places we knew.

THIRD DAY

memories

We took the route that promised a view and discovered that the best part was everything along the way. There were steps down to the water, a little shop we nearly missed and plenty of reasons to arrive later than planned.

FOURTH DAY

memories

Some places make it easy to stay. We found ours beside the water, where lunch stretched into the afternoon and nobody seemed in a hurry. We talked, watched the light change and decided that doing very little could be a very good plan.

FIFTH DAY

memories

Today was made of small surprises: a doorway full of flowers, a taste we had never tried and a conversation that changed our plans. We collected them quietly, one after another, until an ordinary day had become one of our favourites.

memories

On the last morning, everything seemed worth another look. We revisited a favourite street, sat a little longer over coffee and took a photograph of the view we already knew by heart. Leaving made us notice how much we wanted to keep.

DAY 6 / OUR PHOTO NOTES

SEA & suppers

A taste of the journey

Long lunches, local flavours and tables with a view. Some memories begin with the first bite.

A TASTE

of summer

01 Morning coffee

A quiet start, a favourite cup and nowhere we had to hurry.

02 A sweet ending

Something to share, and the perfect reason to stay a little longer.

LIVING
the culture

Look beyond the postcard.

We began to notice the ordinary things: the rhythm of the morning, the places where people gathered, the doors left open to the sea breeze. They told a different story from the landmarks, and we wanted to remember both.

A closer look

Stone worn smooth by footsteps. A doorway painted blue. A familiar gesture in an unfamiliar place. These were the details that invited us to slow down.

TRAVEL keepsakes

01 / Hand-painted colour

A little piece of the coast, ready to find a place at home.

02 / Something delicate

A small object with a memory held inside.

03 / Made for everyday

The useful souvenir that brings the journey back to an ordinary day.

Collected

along the way

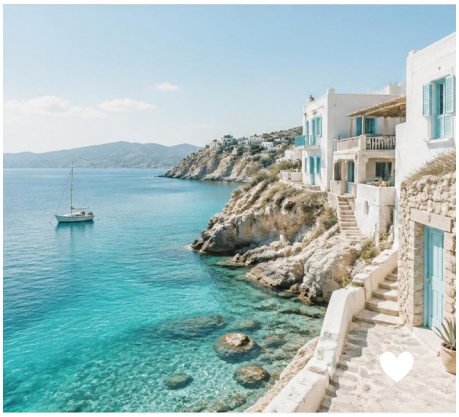

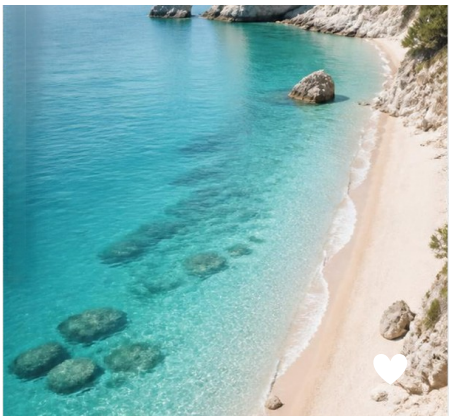

Small things that bring the whole journey back.

POSTCARD

Dear you,

There is a table here with a view of the water, a little lane full of flowers and a hundred things we wish we could show you. For now, this postcard will have to do.

BROOKE & ROBIN

Together, somewhere new.

This was our time to step outside the everyday. To share the discoveries, the wrong turns, the quiet moments and the view from the end of the road.

THE TWO of us

Replace these frames with your favourite portraits together.

The best part was sharing it.

MOMENTS
that mattered

The photographs tell part of the story. The rest lives in the conversations, the laughter and the moments we almost forgot to notice. This is a page for those memories.

More than places,

we remember the feeling.

SUMMER
essentials

The everyday favourites

Something light. Something useful. Something that made us smile. A few well-chosen things were all we needed.

Your own edit

Every piece has a story.

AT OUR
favourite table

We stayed for one more glass of water, then one more story. The food was lovely, but the setting and the company made the meal. It became one of the places we would talk about long after we returned home.

A place worth returning to.

memories

On the last morning, everything seemed worth another look. We revisited a favourite street, sat a little longer over coffee and took a photograph of the view we already knew by heart. Leaving made us notice how much we wanted to keep.

Just one more look.

WHAT WE WILL remember

A favourite place

The corner we would find again.

A little surprise

The moment that changed the day.

Something to keep

A feeling we want to carry home.

A few things we brought home

A slower pace.
A new favourite view.
A story we can tell together.

One last note...

There will be other journeys. For now, there is this one: the places we saw, the people we met and the little moments we chose to keep.

With love, Brooke & Robin
